cried on the slightest provocation because they are proud (yalo levu). A Tumbou boy announced that if the cook, a lowborn fellow from Waitambu, gave him cheek he would return it; when the cook scolded him for helping himself to salt without leave he cried. One boy of thirteen being slapped by the cook cried, not, as he afterwards explained, because it hurt, but from defiance (yalokaukaua). A boy when insulted would not strike, but sit down and vent his grief.

Puberty

I examined a number of boys for signs of puberty and took their ages from the provincial register. Out of ten boys ranging from fourteen years and three months to seventeen and two months, four, averaging sixteen and eleven months had well developed pubic hairs; two, averaging sixteen, had a beginning; four, averaging fourteen and seven months, none. At about the age of thirteen boys become particular about exposing themselves.

I do not know at what age menses begin. There is no observance when they start, except that girls begin to use the tama salutation; if a girl sings out "ninggo," it is known her periods have commenced. Boys begin the tama quite young, at no specified age.

Circumcision

I use the word circumcision regardless of its etymology, because whatever may be the differences of technique in exposing the glans penis, it is all one custom and a general term is needed for that custom.

It is called in Lauan teve, but the word is not used before women; in their presence, and in polite conversation, the word sili (to bathe) is used. Women have no scruples about discussing it under that name, though I have not heard them allude to details. Another term is vala, to do, act upon. Women may not be present at circumcision.

In the olden days a boy was grown (thauravou ndina) before getting circumcized; some had already slept with women. Now they are circumcized at about the fifteenth or sixteenth year. In the school, boys about ten or twelve started a craze for circumcision. The reason was that being alone in the school they were not bashful as they would have been in the village. Normally the date is fixed not by the boy but by the parents' ability to provide a feast. A noble youth is not circumcized till he is big because a feast has to be made. A noble youth also has other boys circumcized with him, who are called i loloku, a word also applied to persons killed at a nobleman's death. One of my boys, Longanimothe, had two i loloku, one a bastard of Vatuwangga, his clan; another an Ono boy who stood in the relation of son to his adoptive mother, whose grandmother was of Ono.
